Charity Spotlight

Younis Masih, 65, is the only breadwinner of his family of six. He and his family live in Mehbood Town, Faisalabad District, Pakistan, where most people make a poor living working at the brick kilns. Most lack access to safe drinking water, toilets, and adequate sanitation facilities. Despite his advanced age and failing health, Masih had to fetch water from a community tap more than half a mile from his house. He would go there two or three times daily to collect water in small plastic cans or buckets to bring home to his family.

Global Impact partner United Methodist Committee on Relief (UMCOR) has been working with local organizations to make clean water more accessible to vulnerable people, especially women and children, in Faisalabad District. In addition, the project is promoting the construction of household latrines and providing hygiene education.

Masih's family is among those who have had a new hand pump installed in their home. The hand pump in his house has become a blessing for others in the neighborhood too. They can get water from it anytime. Masih welcomes everyone with a smile.

120,000 miles of rivers and streams in Illinois provide essential drinking water, industrial water, habitat, agricultural water, and flood control to our communities.

EarthShare Illinois members work to protect these resources and see that they are as healthy and clean as needed to support all of their uses.
